MIXED CONDITIONAL SENTENCES (self-study)

It is possible for the two parts of a conditional sentence to refer to different times, and the resulting sentence is a "mixed conditional" sentence. There are two types of mixed conditional sentence:

A. Present result of past condition:

1. Form

The tense in the 'if' clause is the past perfect, and the tense in the main clause is the present conditional:

'IF' CLAUSE	MAIN CLAUSE
If + past perfect	Present conditional
If I had worked harder at school	I would have a better job now.
If we had looked at the map	we wouldn't be lost.

2. Function

In these sentences, the time is past in the 'if' clause, and present in the main clause. They refer to an unreal past condition and its probable result in the present. They express a situation which is contrary to reality both in the past and in the present:

'If I had worked harder at school' is contrary to past fact - I didn't work hard at school, and 'I would have a better job now' is contrary to present fact - I haven't got a good job.

If we had looked at the map (we didn't), we wouldn't be lost (we are lost).

Examples:

- I would be a millionaire now if I had taken that job.
- If you'd caught that plane you'd be dead now.
- If you hadn't spent all your money on CDs, you wouldn't be broke.

B. Past result of present or continuing condition.

1. Form

The tense in the If-clause is the simple past, and the tense in the main clause is the perfect conditional:

'IF' CLAUSE	MAIN CLAUSE
If + simple past If I wasn't afraid of spiders If we didn't trust him	Perfect conditional I would have picked it up. we would have sacked him months ago.

2. Function

In these sentences the time in the *If-*clause is now or always, and the time in the main clause is before now. They refer to an unreal present situation and its probable (but unreal) past result:

- If I wasn't afraid of spiders' is contrary to present reality I am afraid of spiders, and 'I would have picked it up' is contrary to past reality I didn't pick it up.
- "If we didn't trust him' is contrary to present reality we do trust him, and 'we would have sacked him' is contrary to past reality we haven't sacked him.

Examples:

- a. If she wasn't afraid of flying she wouldn't have travelled by boat.
- b. I'd have been able to translate the letter if my Italian was better.
- c. If I $\it was$ a good cook, $\it I'd$ $\it have$ $\it invited$ them to lunch.
- d. If the elephant wasn't in love with the mouse, she'd have trodden on him by now.
