

Part one:

- 1) What would be a really great/ stimulating/ fascinating/inspiring article to read about your subject area?
- 2) Spend five minutes writing down some key words, phrases and topics. (your partner will see this)
- 3) Show your partner your notes – get them to ask you questions.

Part two:

- 1) Spend about 5 minutes writing in rough about 100 words on what the article is about. (your partner will see this too)
- 2) Get your partner to read it. Read their writing. Tell them how to make it more academic in style.
- 3) From your partner's feedback, re-write your draft. Try and make it more academic in style.

Part three:

- 1) Put your abstract on the wall. Read the other abstracts. Which articles would you most like to read? Choose 3.

Jo Eastlake 2013

