

Dealing with Questions

Study these phrases for dealing with questions. Try to guess the (single) missing word in each gap. Write your answers in pencil – there may be more than one possibility.

- 1) That's a very good (think of something other than 'question')
- 2) Sorry, can you that again?
- 3) Has anyone else the same thing?
- 4) OK, I think there's time one last question.
- 5) That's an interesting question. What's your own?
- 6) Sorry, I didn't that (think of something other than 'understand')
- 7) I think that's outside the of this presentation, but I'm happy to it with you
- 8) I'm you asked me that.
- 9) I promised to finish time, and I see that our time is nearly
- 10) You have thought quite a lot about this. What conclusions have you to?
- 11) Could you be a little more?
- 12) Would anyone like to on that?
- 13) I don't have that information to Can I get to you later?
- 14) So, if I understand you, you're asking ..

Adapted from an exercise in "Business Vocabulary Builder", Paul Emmerson, Longman