Scraping / Automation Specialist

Skypicker.com is a Brno-based tech startup building a global flights directory, allowing customers to find and book the best and cheapest flights.

2014 was a year of crazy growth for us. We managed to multiply our revenues by 20x, and we are looking at a similar growth rate next year as well. To achieve that, we want to have a great team of motivated and fun individuals, who are not scared of a challenge or of tasks they may not have encountered before.

There are not enough hours in a day to progress as fast as we want. That is why we are looking for a developer, who loves to work with data and will help us to improve our current data processing framework.

Check our website to see whether you want to help us take it further!
