Sex and Gender in Medicine

Prof. Dr. Gertraud (Turu) Stadler

5 July 2023 | 4 – 5 pm (CET) | Online Webinar

Are you performing clinical trials or collecting health related data from other sources?

In this SPARK Europe Webinar Series, Prof. Dr. Gertraud (Turu) Stadler, professor for gender sensitive prevention research and director of the Institute Gender in Medicine at Charité Berlin will present the hallmarks of sex and gender in medical research. Professor Stadler's research lies at the intersection of psychology and public health: She has recently developed a Diversity Minimal Item Set, which enables comparative diversity assessments and can be implemented in a wide range of clinical studies.

After this talk, you will know about:

- What is the gender data gap?
- Why is gender medicine relevant for translational projects?
- How can I incorporate gender and diversity-sensitive assessment into my research practices?
- How can awareness of sex/gender differences improve health care?

Online via MS Teams | Please register here!

Registration to the webinar is required in advance. Please register no later than 4 July 2023. Please note that you will receive the MS-Teams link and access code the evening before the lecture and that access to last minute registrations, cannot be guaranteed.
