

Nationalism and the Novel

First Response Paper

Most theories of nationalism claim that the nation-state is the fundamental unit for human social life and takes precedence over any other social and political principles. This may be true for most of Europe, but what about the post-colonial world and Latin America in particular? In what ways is nationalism constructed? How is it different? You must use class readings in formulating your response.

Please write ONE (1) page only. Due IN CLASS next week.

PLEASE DO NOT EMAIL ME YOUR PAPER, ONLY PRINTED PAPERS WILL BE ACCEPTED.
