

What is public opinion?

Defined as the combined personal views of individuals in a society toward issues of relevance to government.

- Attitudes about political personalities
- Attitudes about political institutions
- Attitudes about public policy

These views are considered an integral part of the functioning of government in a democratic society

