BSS 186/486 NATO and European Security

Faculty

Prof Dr Schuyler Foerster, DPhil Visiting Professor, Department of Political Science, Masaryk University 240648@mail.muni.cz skyfoerster@gmail.com

Course Schedule

When: Daily from Monday, 29 April - Friday, 10 May 2019 (except Wednesday, 1 May, & Wednesday, 8 May, which are holidays)

Where: Times and Rooms vary each day – class schedule is on page 4.

Course Objective

This is an intense and very short course—encompassing only two weeks. We will examine the past, present, and future of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, a unique peacetime security alliance that has been a cornerstone of European security for over 70 years. Through lectures, seminar discussions, case studies, and simulations (depending on scheduling constraints), we will discuss the following main topics:

- The historical challenge of finding peace and security in Europe.
- The formation of NATO and America's unique peacetime security guarantee
- NATO during the Cold War: strategic debates in a bipolar world
- NATO after the Cold War: enlargement, new missions, & new challenges
- NATO's future: prospects for sustained adaptability in a changing world

Course Requirements

This course focuses on understanding and communicating complex concepts and applying them to the real world of policy. There is no midterm or final examination.

Students are expected to:

- complete a reasonable—but not excessive—amount of reading;
- engage intellectually with the course material;
- participate actively in seminar discussions;
- write clearly in short essays addressing seminar discussion topics; and,
- conduct research on a selected NATO country and represent that country as part of a country team engaged in a crisis simulation.

Students will receive a final letter grade for the semester based on the following components, with a total possible of 100 points:

- Written essays (50 points): Throughout the course, there will be two essays, designed for you to integrate course material and think about their implications. Each essay will be worth a maximum of 25 points. Each essay should be approximately 500 words, typed, double-spaced.
  - The first essay will be due at the beginning of class on Friday, 3 May. It will focus on the evolution of NATO from the end of World War II through the Cold War. You will be asked to assess whether NATO was successful in that period and to explain the principal reasons for NATO's success.
  - The second essay will be due at the beginning of class on Thursday, 9 May. It will focus on the evolution of NATO since the end of the Cold War and its ability to adapt to the new challenges of the 21st century. You will be asked to assess whether NATO has been successful in these efforts and, again, to explain the principal reasons for NATO's success or lack thereof.
  - Your essay must be your own work. Faculty of Social Studies policies on plagiarism apply. If you draw material from external sources, document them properly. You may discuss the essays with your classmates and case study teammates, but the writing of your essays must be your own individual effort. If you have questions, ask!
- Crisis Simulation—point paper and exercise participation (20 points):During the course, students will participate on a country team in a crisis simulation, details of which will be distributed in class. Each team will prepare a joint "point paper" (worth a maximum of 10 points for each team member) outlining its goals, to be submitted at the beginning of class before the start of the simulation. Each team member will also receive up to a maximum of 10 points based on their individual participation in the simulation.
- Seminar preparation, engagement and participation (15 points):

This course is a combination of lecture and discussion; it requires your active participation. The classroom is an environment of academic freedom. You should feel free to challenge the ideas set forth by faculty members and your peers in a respectful and well-mannered fashion. Support your positions with sound analysis, evidence, and reason. Focus on developing better arguments; policy is a domain in which there are few "correct" answers. To succeed, students should:

- ✓ Prepare beforehand by completing (and digesting) the assigned readings;
- ✓ Engage in class, by actively paying attention to lecture and discussion, taking comprehensive notes on the class, and asking questions if you need assistance in understanding the course material;
- ✓ Participate in class discussions by offering thoughtful insights in a courteous manner; by asking good questions during class that aid the discussion or out of class with your professor; and by active participation in the simulation.

In this category, each student can earn up to 15 points, which your professor will determine using the following rubric:

- ✓ 14-15 points: Regular and courteous engagement and participation; asking good questions; answering questions intelligently and thoughtfully; contributing insight; clearly keeping up with the readings.
- ✓ 10-13 points: Clear engagement in class discussion by taking good notes, even if only occasionally participating actively in discussion; generally able to answer questions; keeping up with most of the reading; asking questions—either in or out of class—to help with understanding of the course material.
- ✓ 7-9 points: Some engagement or participation in class; only occasional evidence of having understood the reading material; argumentative with little reason or evidence of one's position
- ✓ 4-6 points: Little or no participation; little or no evidence of having done the reading; passive demeanor or uncivil behavior in class
- ✓ 0-3 points: No engagement in the course or evidence of preparation for class.

Grading

Based on 100 possible points in the course, I will assign final letter grades as follows:

A: 90-100 D: 60-69 B: 80-89 E: 50-59 C: 70-79 F: 0-49

Resources

We will draw principally on the following textbooks:

Gülur AYBET & Rebecca MOORE (eds). NATO: In Search of a Vision (Washington: Georgetown University Press, 2010)

Brian J. COLLINS. NATO: A Guide to the Issues (New York: Praeger, 2011)

Stanley R. SLOAN. Defense of the West: NATO, the European Union and the Transatlantic Bargain (2016)

David YOST. NATO's Balancing Act (Washington: US Institute of Peace, 2014)

Aybet & Moore, Collins, and Yost are available in the MU Faculty of Social Sciences Library. A prior edition of Sloan's book—Permanent Alliance? NATO and the Transatlantic Bargain from Truman to Obama (2010)—is also available in the MU Faculty of Social Sciences library.

All other reading assignments will be available to you electronically as .pdf documents or as links from the NATO website, www.nato.int. You should also familiarize yourself with the resources available on the NATO website, since we will use them extensively.
