Political Issues and Social Policy in the E.U.

Lecture 3

- what are the defining characteristics and underlying principles categorising E.U. social policy?

CONTEXT

- historical and theoretical frame

- underlying principles

Political Issues and Social Policy in the E.U.

Lecture 3

- there is a parallel process of E.U. social integration accompanying developments in political and economic integration (spillover)
- What is the ‘politics’ of E.U. social integration?
- E.U. ‘single social areas’?
- A ‘europeanisation’ of social policy?

Political Issues and Social Policy in the E.U.

Lecture 3

1. Harmonisation and convergence
2. Diversity and mutual recognition

Political Issues and Social Policy in the E.U. Lecture 3

- Harmonisation made more urgent, but also more complex, by preparations for EMU – and aim and need to maintain principle of freedom of movement in enlarged E.U.

Political Issues and Social Policy in the E.U.

Lecture 3

BUT, by Maastricht Treaty (1993) Social Charter stated account should be taken of “diverse forms of national practices, in particular in the field of contractual relations”

- stressed the need to maintain the competitiveness of the Community's economy

Political Issues and Social Policy in the E.U.

Lecture 3

Harmonisation of social policy not defined as, or suggested to mean, complete unification of social systems and social policy

- But acceptance of certain common principles and standards of social policy

Political Issues and Social Policy in the E.U.

Lecture 3

- harmonisation seen as means of avoiding ‘welfare tourism’
 - and prevent national social policy becoming bargaining counter between member states
 - and avoid distortion of economic ‘competition’

Political Issues and Social Policy in the E.U.

Lecture 3

Single European Act (1985) – convergence in fiscal and employment law

- improvement in infrastructures and standards of education and training
- for competitive Single European Market harmonisation of social policy necessary

Political Issues and Social Policy in the E.U.

Lecture 3

- BUT Jacques Delors, as Head of the E.U. Commission, accepted various specific cultures, traditions and social policy models of member states meant harmonisation across all social policy areas impossible.
- advocated COHERENCE/COHESION,
- Acceptance of diversity and 'MUTUAL RECOGNITION'

Political Issues and Social Policy in the E.U.

Lecture 3

COHESION = Member states 'encouraged' to co-operate and co-ordinate their efforts in order to bring about greater economic and social cohesion between the regions

Political Issues and Social Policy in the E.U.

Lecture 3

‘Community Charter of the Fundamental
Social Rights of Workers’, 1989

- harmonise safety conditions at workplace

Political Issues and Social Policy in the E.U.

Lecture 3

‘Community Charter of the Fundamental
Social Rights of Workers’, 1989

- allowed member states to continue with national differences in social protection systems
- Social Charter (Maastricht Treaty 1993) –
no mention of harmonisation
 - respect for national specificity

Political Issues and Social Policy in the E.U.

Lecture 3

‘Open Method of Co-ordination’ (OMC)

- formerly launched as an E.U. process at Lisbon E.U. Council of March 2000

- purpose was to spread legislative (and therefore, policy-making) ‘best practices’ across E.U. Member States – primarily in areas where E.U. had no formal regulatory competence

Political Issues and Social Policy in the E.U.

Lecture 3

- 2004 enlargement brought different issues and problems
- legacy of bureaucratic state collectivist systems
 - different institutional legacies
 - nature and character of revolutions
 - 1990s economic transformations
 - made harmonisation less likely

Political Issues and Social Policy in the E.U.

Lecture 3

SUMMARY:

1. Each enlargement made harmonisation less likely
2. ‘Deepening’ versus ‘widening’ – contradiction between economic and monetary union necessitating social policy convergence and expansion of E.U. complicating convergence

Political Issues and Social Policy in the E.U.
