Czech civil Law I - from past to future II (history of existing recodification)

- 23. 2. 2012 new C.c. was published in Coll.
- from 1.1.2014 new Civil Code in force
- Accepted and published also complementary acts (mainly civil procedure)⁷

Czech civil Law II - System of former private Law (by 31.12. 2013)

- 1811 - private Law = civil Law
- In the course of 19th century, and especially in the 2nd half of the 20th century the Labor Law, Family Law and Commercial Law as the separated branches of private law were established
- By 31. 12. 2013, the parts of Czech private Law were:
 - Civil law (Civil Code - Act 40/1964 Sb., Author's Act 121/2000)
 - Commercial Law (Commercial Code - Act 513/1991 Sb.)
 - Family Law (Family Act - Act 94/1963 Sb.)
 - Labour Law (Labour Code - Act 262/2006 Sb.)

Czech civil Law II - System of new/existing/in force private Law

Recodification of Czech civil law changed the entire system of Czech private Law:

- The parts of Civil Code are:
 - Family Law (part two of C.c.),
 - partially Labour Law: legal capacity to be the part of labour juridical relations, legal reference (link) to labour contract in Labour Code,
 - main part of Commercial Law - commercial contract incorp. into the C.c. (excl. Act of commercial Corporations)

Czech civil Law II - System of new/existing/in force private Law II

- 2 essential parts of the system of private law:
 - General private law (C.c.)
 - Special private law (part 2 of C.c. - family; commercial law (pro parte in C.c., pro parte in special acts); consumers protection law (pro parte in C.c., pro parte in special acts))
 - Criterion to distinguish: method („technology“) of legal regulation

Czech civil Law III - System of new private Law

- The integral parts of Civil Code are not:
 - Labour Law (Act No 262/2006 Coll., Labour Code) : Systemic relation between C.c. and L.c.: general regulation - special regulation
 - The law of commercial corporations (Act. No 90/2012 Coll.)
 - The international private Law (Act. No 91/2012 Coll.)

Current situation of Czech civil law I

- The new Czech Civil Code has been signed by President (20th February 2012)
- The text of C.C. was published in the Collection of Laws on 23th March 2012, No 89/2012 Coll.
- New Czech Civil Code came in force on 1st January 2014
- The base of recodification of Czech Private Law is composed of 3 legal acts:
 - Civil Code (89/2012 Sb.-Coll.)
 - Act of commercial Corporations (90/2012 Coll.)
 - International private law Act (91/2012 Coll.)

Current situation of Czech civil law II

- Code civil No 89/2012 Coll: contents general private law
- Special private law:
 - Labour Law (Act. No. 262/2006 Coll. - Labour Code)
 - Commercial law (esp. Act. No. 90/2012 Coll. - Commercial corporations)
 - International Private Law (esp. Act. No. 91/2012 Coll.)
 - „European“ private law (EU PL in broader sense)

- 1) Act 256/2013 Coll., land registry act
- 2) Act 257/2013 Sb., changing some acts concerning l.r.a.
- 3) Act 292/2013 Sb., special civil procedures

subsequently: the term Status of public utility was canceled and „forgotten“

Czech civil law III - New Czech Civil Code

Structure of the text:

- 5 parties:
- Part One : General Part
- Part Two: Family Law
- Part Three: Absolute property Rights
(incl. Inheritance)
- Part Four: Relative property Rights (Contract and quasi contract Law; Tort Law; unjust enrichment)
- Part Five: Final, Transitory and Repealing Provisions
3.080 paragraphs (ABGB 1502; BGB 2385;
Hungarian CC cca 1500; prepared Slovak CC 880..)

The main attributes of conception of new civil Code I

- 1) Universal Code of private Law - integration of entire private Law
- 2) C.c. proclaim itself as charter of private fundamental rights - C.c. lost that function - Constitution; now the goal of C.c. to apply the constitutional rights—horizontal impact of f.r.
- 3) Based on the doctrine of natural law - applied mainly – juridical conception of human being (§ 19) and principles of private law (§ 3). Danger – implementation of principles of natural law leads to the destruction of grounds of natural law.
- 4) Based on individual position (the social dimension is missing)
- 5) Discontinuity/breach of existing development

The main attributes of new civil Code II

- 6) Basic institutes family, property (ownership) and contract (responsibility?).
- 7) Deeper „privatization“: mainly contract relations (more autonomy, more non-mandatory rules, more respect to the will - last will/testament..). Contrary - EU law
- 8) Between tradition and modernization/upgrade of Civil Law regulation, the legislator accepted the traditional concept (ABGB, Draft of Czechoslovak Civil Code 1937) and refused the future development
- 9) Denied the function of Code civil as the tool of the control of social relations.

The main attributes of new civil Code III

Motto: F.v.Zeiller: Code should be „kurz, klar, abstrakt“ (short, clear, abstract) M.T.: „buta ember“

- 1) Rule: the same word - the same meaning/the different word - the different meaning
- 2) Wide range of different terms of the same word meaning (e.g. equity principles)
- 3) Many terms of very near word meaning (groups of principles)
- 4) Many problems with functional/working implementation of the term into context (The effect of judgement on the juridical act: once validity, another time formation of juridical act, another time effectiveness of j.a. § 33 odst.1, § 46 odst.2, §

The main attributes of new civil Code IV

- 5) The trouble in translation the terms (how to translate Good Faith and Fair Dealing of DCFR to Czech C.C.?)
- 6) Attention to details of regulation - C.C. doesn't work (example: 8 steps to choose the person who can/shall bury the dead person §114 odst.1, 9 steps to choose the authorized person to agree with the intervention into the human integrity (§ 97 odst. 1))
- 7) Recurrent terms in modified versions (exam.: principles)
- 8) Former, extincted social relations (výměnek- exchange? § 2707n.)
- 9) A lot of presumptions and fictions - Civil Law resignes from the aim to be true image of social life
- 10) What is contained in code has the same importance as what there misses (equality before the law, of opportunities, solidarity, juridical relation as the paradigm of all legal/judirical constructions..)

Current development of the Civil law legislation

- The recodification is in force 5 years: first experiences
- There exist deep different experts opinions concerning basic concept of private law reform
- One of the strong criticisers - dr. Robert Pelikán - from 2015 till 2018 the Minister of Justice
- Legislative activities of Ministry of Justice follow the large changes of new C.c.
- Main part of scholars recommend to wait
