- a) A 16-year old boy suffers from severe acne and irritated complexion. Prescribe him an effective suspension made of 85% of zinc oxide (so-called fluid powder – Suspensio zinci oxidi) mixed with talcum and glycerole (talci; glyceroli). The stabilizer is the bentonite magma (bentoniti magma) up to 100 grams. The patient should rub the suspension into his skin three times a day. Shake before using.
- b) A 25-year old woman was received at the emergency with itching urticaria (nettle-rash) on both hands and knees. Prescribe her antihistaminics to relieve her from the symptoms: three packages of Dithiadén tablets. The patient should take half a tablet twice a day.

- a) A fifty-year old woman suffers from chronic bad headache with no reason identified. Prescribe her capsules made of 0,005 g of Diazepam; 0,02 g of Phenobarbitalum; 0,1 g of coffeinum; and 0,2 g of paracetamolum. The vehicle is lactose (lactosum) up to 0,5 grams. The pharmacist should make a powder. Make 50 doses in the form of gelatine capsules (gelatinosus, a, um). The patient should take one capsule if needed, max. twice a day. The medication should be marked as poison.
- b) A hard smoker suffers from chronic bronchitis and needs to expectorate the mucus from his bronchial tubes. Prescribe him mucolytics: one package of Mucosolvan drops. The patient should take 30 drops every three hours.

- a) A five-year old child has been received at the hospital with very high fever caused by acute inflammation of urinary bladder. One of the best ways how to lower the fever of children is via paracetamol suppositories (Suppositoria paracetamoli). These should be made by pharmacist of 10 grams of paracetamol + 30 grams of Adipis solidi as adjuvant remedy. 20 of them should be made in equal doses. The instructions for the patient are to take one suppository every 6 hours if the fever reaches 38,5°C.
- b) The patient suffers from acute pneumonia, but is allergic to penicilline antibiotics. Therefore, two original packages of klaritromycine antibiotics Klacid 500 mg have to be prescribed in the form of coated tablets. The patient should take one tablet every 12 hours for two-three weeks.
