Present perfect 1

 Use the present perfect for a past event which the speaker feels is connected with the present.

The taxi's arrived. (The taxi is here now.)

We often use the present perfect to talk about a recent event. Use the adverb just to emphasise that the event is recent.

The taxi's just arrived.

3 We can use the present perfect with already and yet. Already and yet mean 'before now'. We use yet in questions and negatives. Already comes after has / have and before the main verb. Yet comes at the end of the sentence or question.

> They've already invented it. I haven't left yet. Have the boys arrived yet?

4 Still with the present perfect negative stresses that the situation is continuing now.

I still haven't left home.

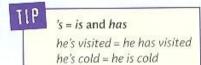

5 Make the present perfect using the verb have + past participle.

> I've just seen her. I haven't visited the museum yet.

	statement 🗸	negative X
I / You / We / They	have ('ve) visited	have not (haven't) visited
He / She / It	has ('s) visited	has not (hasn't) visited

question	?	short answer 🗸
Have	I / you / we / they	visited?	Yes, (I) have. No, (I) haven't.
Has	he / she / it	visited?	Yes, (he) it has. No, (he) hasn't.

6 Add-ed to form the past participle of regular verbs, e.g. visited, arrived, tried. (These are the same as the past simple verb forms.)

See page 182 for spelling rules.

However, there are many irregular forms.

be \rightarrow been go \rightarrow gone see \rightarrow seen break \rightarrow broken give \rightarrow given speak \rightarrow spoken come \rightarrow come steal \rightarrow stolen wake up \rightarrow woken up do \rightarrow done

TIP

Some irregular past participles are the same as the past simple form.

 $\begin{array}{ll} \text{find} \rightarrow \text{found} & \text{read} \rightarrow \text{read} \rightarrow \text{read} \\ \text{have} \rightarrow \text{had} \rightarrow \text{had} & \text{say} \rightarrow \text{said} \rightarrow \text{said} \\ \text{leave} \rightarrow \text{left} \rightarrow \text{left} & \text{spend} \rightarrow \text{spent} \rightarrow \text{spent} \\ \text{lose} \rightarrow \text{lost} \rightarrow \text{lost} & \text{tell} \rightarrow \text{told} \rightarrow \text{told} \\ \text{make} \rightarrow \text{made} \rightarrow \text{made} & \text{win} \rightarrow \text{won} \rightarrow \text{won} \end{array}$
