SEMINAR 3

Presentations II

A noted* speaker was asked his secret of success:

"First," he said, "you write an exciting opening that will draw the attention of everyone in the room.

Then you compose a dramatic summary and closing words that will leave the audience spellbound*. Then," he advised, "you put them as close together as possible!"

INTRODUCTION - ENDING - HANDLING QUESTIONS - SPEAKING CONFIDENTLY

INTRODUCTION

An introduction is a very important part of a presentation. It should not only arouse curiosity, but also provide an overview* of the most important points. The audience should get the impression that your topic is well thought out (an interesting, informative title), that you have done the audience analysis (wellchosen style and register*), and that you have a clear idea about the actual content of the presentation (outline of the main points). Here are some tasks that will help you practice the introduction.

Good morning, ladies and gentlemen. It's a pleasure to be with you today. My name is Gordon Mathews and I'm in charge* of the University Research Programme at the Rector's Office. We are here today to review* some key figures and to outline our strategy over the next five years. So what I intend to do is to break down* this presentation into three parts: first, the current situation; second, the options* facing us, and third, the strategy I propose.* If you have any questions, please, feel free to interrupt* me, but I should also say that there'll be an opportunity to discuss issues at greater length* after my talk.

Task 3

Give an introduction to one of the following presentations . Use your working title from last week!

- 1. As an MU (FF/FSS) student, you are going to present the life of a university student at an MU Open House Day to future students (mostly teenagers, but also some parents) in a large hall (150 people).
- 2. You, as a student of your branch, will present your field of studies to other MU students. (15 people)
- 3. As a member of a project team, you will present a new project in your field to the Dean's Project Committee (15 people) at the Dean's Office.

Task 5

The sentences a-e below are the end of a presentation, but they are in the wrong order. Put them into the right order.

- a) So, I'd now be glad to answer any questions.
- b) I hope you'll all go away with a more complete picture of the principal activities of Masaryk University.
- c) Very briefly, there are three areas. Firstly, teaching; secondly research; and thirdly academic materials.
- d) So, that brings me to the end of my presentation.
- e) Finally, I'd like to leave you with something which I heard recently. "You can't please all of the students all of the time, but we should certainly be able to be ready to help all of the students all of the time."

Task 6

Make complete sentences by matching the correct parts.

- a) Before we come to the end,

6. I'd like to thank you for your *participation.

ENDING – CONCLUSION

A conclusion reinforces* the main ideas you wish your audience to remember and allows you to emphasize the main points, the importance of specific ideas, and to value* particular concepts. In short, the design of your conclusion will depend on your initial purpose. A strong conclusion is as important as a strong introduction, as both the beginning and the end will be the parts that are most likely remembered.

Task 7

Complete the following ending with words from the list.

questions	that's all	second	discussion	formed by conclu	de issu	ues briefly	y finally	begin
So,I have planned to say about the topic. Let me summarize the main Very, they are four. First, nation states, multinational democracies. I'd like to by emphasizing the fact that the majority of today's countries are multicultural societies.

Well, I suggest we start the now. But before we, let me thank you for your attention. OK, I'd be glad to answer any now.

Task 8

Endings can become repetitive, so it is important to have a choice of words and expressions ready. Use one of the following expressions to replace the synonyms in bold.

Presence I'd be glad talk As you can see then lastly reliable now idea covers everything in it seems to me that listening sum up is based main

That brings me to the end of my presentation. Let me just run over the key points again. Very briefly, there are three. First, socio-biology in contrast to ecology, second to economy, and third to political science. From what you have heard, there are some very good reasons to see socio-biology as any treatment of social phenomena that basically draws on neo-Darwinist theory.

Seminar 3 – Presentations II (Page 5 of 12)

At this point, I'd like to leave you with the following thought: remember that politics, ecology, as well as economy are part of life, and biology is the study of life. In my opinion, the only possibility is to accept the existence of sociobiology as an equal to other social sciences. Thank you for your attention and now, if you have any questions, I'd be pleased to answer them.

Task 9

Give an ending to one of the following presentation situations.

- 1. As an MU (FF/FSS) student, you have presented the life of a university student at the MU Open House Day for future students (mostly teenagers, but also their parents) in a large hall (150 people).
- 2. You, as a student of your branch, have presented your field of studies to other MU students.
- 3. As a member of a project team, you have presented a new project in your field to the Dean's Project Committee (15 people) at the Dean's Office.

QUESTIONS

Handling questions is a very important part of any presentation, so it is important to get accustomed* to certain tactics.

Task 10

What would you say or do in the following situations?

SITUATIONS:

- 1. Instead of asking a question, a person strongly and rather angrily disagrees with you.
- 2. Instead of asking a question, a person states their viewpoint that agrees with yours.
- 3. A person says that some of your information is inaccurate*, but you are absolutely sure that you are correct.

4. A person says that some of your information is inaccurate, and you are not sure whether your information is correct or not.

5. A person asks you a question that will require a very long, complicated answer.

RESPONSES:

Seminar 3 – Presentations II (Page 6 of 12)

A. Do not regard this as an attack. You can say: "I appreciate your bringing this to my attention. I'll have to recheck my sources to see what is correct." B. If possible, give your source of information. If you cannot do so, you can say: "I believe that my information is correct, but I will certainly recheck my facts."

C. You can say: "That's an interesting question, but it would take much too long to answer it. Perhaps we can discuss it later."

D. Listen politely, then restate your point of view, with additional evidence, if possible. Do not argue with the person. If they repeat their position, you can say: "Well, we'll have to agree to disagree on this point." or "Unfortunately, there's no time to go into this more deeply right now."

E. Show how this person's ideas support your own point of view. You can say: "Yes, that fits in exactly with what I was saying."

MALS TEST materials (1997) in M. Pavlovová, Oral Presentations, 2002.

USEFUL HINTS* ABOUT HOW TO PROCEED*:

welcome the question – take time to think before answering – clarify* the question –

accept criticism positively – reply positively – check whether the questioner is satisfied

Task 11

Put the questions and answers in these three dialogues into the correct order.

- A a) I'd like to ask you about the new university campus.
 - b) We've got a meeting next week. I'll let you know as soon as I can, if that's OK.
 - a) Excuse me, could I interrupt?
 - a) Sure, that'll be fine.
 - b) Sure, what exactly would you like to know?
 - a) Well, could you tell me at this stage whether you have fixed a budget?
 - b) Of course.
- B a) Would you mind telling us when you're going to retire?
 - b) When is it?
 - a) May I ask a question?
 - b) That sounds fine. I'll look forward to it.
 - b) Not at all. I'm planning to stop working just after Christmas.
 - a) Oh, good! We'd like to invite you to our Christmas party. Can you come?
 - a) It's on the 23rd from seven onwards.
 - b) Go ahead.
- C a) I see what you mean. Yes, of course we've looked at all the options and think this
 - is the best one.
 - a) Are there any questions?

Seminar 3 – Presentations II (Page 7 of 12)

- a) I'm afraid that's all we have time for now. Perhaps you'd like to talk about that later.
- b) Well, you know, other possibilities such as relocating the campus to a cheaper area.
 - a) I'm not sure what you're getting at.
 - b) Yes, I wonder if you have considered any other options?
 - b) But surely relocation would be better for the staff?

Handling Questions – Phrases

Welcoming the question

That's a good question.

That's interesting.

I'd like to know / Could you tell me

Could I ask / Would you mind if I ask you ...

Go ahead / Please do / Certainly.

Good point.

Asking for clarification of the question

If I understand you correctly, you are saying / asking...

I didn't quite catch that.

Could you go over that again?

I'm not sure what you're getting at.

I'm afraid I don't see the connection.

Rephrasing the question (for others)

Do you mean to say ...

Have I understood correctly that ...

Checking that the questioner is satisfied

Does that answer your question?

Is that clear?

Can we go on?

Avoiding giving an answer

Perhaps we could deal with that later.

Can we talk about that on another occasion?

I'm afraid that's not my field.

I don't have the figures with me.

I'm sure Mr (...) could answer that question.

That's interesting, but I prefer not to answer that today.

I think I answered that earlier.

SPEAKING CONFIDENTLY IN PUBLIC

Seminar 3 – Presentations II (Page 8 of 12)

Why is standing up and speaking in public so terrifying? Some people spend their life avoiding giving presentations, afraid that the day they talk to a large audience they will face complete humiliation. However, presentations skills are more important than ever and are essential for anyone who needs to make a proposal or express an idea to a group.

Listening

You are going to listen to an interview with a representative of a communications training company giving advice about public speaking.

Task 12

Because it can be difficult to take notes while listening to someone speak, just write down the main points in the box below and then expand them into notes afterwards.

Task 13

Compare your key words with a partner and expand your notes. Listen again and add any extra information. What do you think is the most useful advice?

Task 14

Self Critique Form

Your task is to review your presentation and attempt to reach a full, objective assessment of its major strengths and weaknesses. Answer the following questions as they apply to your particular presentation. Give specific examples from the speaking experience to help support your critique. Short answer responses with little evidence will not be accepted.

- Did you select an interesting topic for the audience and the occasion? How did the audience receive the presentation?
- Were you well organized in creating an easy format for your audience to accept? Did you meet the time limit?
- Did you complete adequate research and supporting examples?
- Did you utilize effective delivery techniques to create audience interest?
- Did your visuals aids help or hinder your presentation?
- What were you most pleased about with this speech?
- What were you least pleased about with this speech?
- If you had the opportunity to deliver this speech again next week, what changes would you make?
