OPENING (Introduction & Outline<sup>11</sup>)

The introduction and outline must be designed to gain the interest of the audience. If they are poorly prepared, the audience may lose interest. A well planned introduction will "...set an objective framework in which the audience will accept the information as accurate and as significant." (Laster & Pickett 1996:442)

Task 4

Which of the items on the checklist<sup>12</sup> below would you include in an introduction to:

- a) an internal presentation to colleagues?
- b) an external presentation to a public audience?
- c) both of the above
- d) neither of the above

CHECKLIST:

- 1 The main parts or points you will cover
- 2 Any visuals you will use
- 3 Your name and position
- 4 The length of time you will take
- 5 The purpose of your presentation
- 6 When the audience may ask questions
- 7 The title/subject of your presentation

Task 5

Look at this introduction to a presentation. Some of the words and phrases are not formal enough for this type of presentation. Underline the informal language.

Good morning, ladies and gentlemen. Thank you for coming. Today you'll find things out about the structure and running of Masaryk University. I've broken up my presentation into a few bits: to kick off we'll deal with the various schools and faculties, then we'll take a look at the different courses and stuff like that, and lastly we'll look at the day-to-day running of the whole place. You'll get a chance to ask questions and discuss issues at the end of my talk, but shout out if there's anything you don't get.

Can you think of a more suitable word or phrase to replace the informal language?

VISUALS AND AIDS

Task 6 – Choose the best answer.

a) b)	rerhead transparencies <sup>14</sup> is a good practice, because  it reduces <sup>15</sup> the time required to prepare for the lecture they are good substitutions <sup>16</sup> of handouts it enhances <sup>17</sup> the lecture and helps the audience to understand
a) b) c)	entation, the main purpose of music or audio is to  distract the audience help the audience to focus wake the audience up provide an extra dimension of information
a) b) c)	y, the showing of special objects during a presentation distracts <sup>18</sup> the audience from what is being said helps listeners to understand what the lecturer is talking about can significantly slow down the lecture All of the above
a) b) c)	ning that the presenter is wearing  is not an important issue, unless the lecture is fashion related is important because a formally dressed lecturer is more credible <sup>19</sup> should be considered and chosen to be appropriate <sup>20</sup> to the particular audience should be comfortable and not too colourful
a) b) c)	s are important because they help the audience understand the main idea they serve as a basic reference they are useful for writing comments and notes on All of the above
