My opinion on interpretation

All the definitions of interpretation are definitely right, in every field it has to have its own meaning.

There's not really much to say about that, interpretation is simply a wide spread concept.

Interpretation meaning for me depends on what topic I am currently looking into.

For example my personal interpretation means how I act in certain situations and as that it is quite unique - everyone has their own (hardly possible to be copied or identified by anyone else) way of behaving in society, at home or with their closest friends and relatives.
