• ICOM (International Council of Museums):

A museum is a not-for-profit, permanent institution in the service of society that researches, collects, conserves, interprets and exhibits tangible and intangible heritage. Open to the public, accessible and inclusive, museums foster diversity and sustainability. They operate and communicate ethically, professionally and with the participation of communities, offering varied experiences for education, enjoyment, reflection and knowledge sharing. (ICOM 2022) • Museums Association: "A museum is an institution which collects, documents, prepares, exhibits and interprets material evidence and associated information for the public benefit." (1992) "Museums enable people to explore collections for inspiration, learning and enjoyment. They are institutions that collect, safeguard and make accessible artefacts and specimens, which they hold in trust for society." (1998/2016)

Visiting museums

- Why do people visit museums?
- What are your expectations of a museum visit?
- Have you ever been disappointed by a museum visit?
 Why?
- Describe the process of visiting a museum
 How can we evaluate the suitability of a museum building?

- What role does ethics play in a museum?
- Are there some regulations as to the proper conduct? Can you think of some negative examples?

Ethics – Case Study 4

A local collector has one of the finest private collections of material relating to your subject, even though he holds unorthodox views about it. You have fostered good relations with him in the hope that your museum might benefit from this. One day he offers to lend his collection for a temporary exhibition at the museum's expense, subject to two conditions: that the exhibition only shows material from his collection and that he must be responsible for all label and publication content. Do you accept his offer?

What is participation in museums? Is it important? What forms can it have?
