ANOTATION

The diploma thesis analyses a personality of the teacher and burnout syndrome in his profession. The first chapter of my diploma work involves information from the professional literature, which defines the rise of stress and cause of stress. The following chapter is focused on burnout syndrome and possibilities of prevention. Burnout syndrome is described as a state of exhaustion and performance decline. The third chapter defines a personality of the teacher and his position to educate. The practical part of the thesis describes methods of the research, hypotheses and data received. The survey was conducted in two schools and brings answers on specified hypotheses.
